Conversations

A chance for older people to get involved and get creative!

Creative Conversations is a new creative project, with older people, across Shropshire that seeks to develop new networks and new ways of working across arts and health. Creative Conversations will run from autumn 2018.

What's on offer?

Professional musicians, poets, writers and digital artists will regularly visit various venues and groups to have creative conversations, gather stories, share music, write songs and poems, make films and digital drawings. Over the next two years these will be collected and will feed into the production of a touring Variety Show and exhibition; this will tour around to many small community spaces and village halls across the county, celebrating older people and putting their creativity quite literally centre stage.
